

RoHS Declaration of Compliance for Axtron bv Electronic Assemblies

We hereby declare that the products we manufacture comply with the requirements of the EC Council Directive 2011/65/EU (former 2002/95/EC)

Being a manufacturer of electronic products, Axtron is restricted to component specifications as required by our customers and provided by our suppliers. To the best of our knowledge, our suppliers do not provide us with electronic parts and/or production materials - like soldering alloys and fluxes - which contain hazardous substances as mentioned in the above EU Directive. However, rather than systematically analyse the supplied materials, we require a compliance certificate of raw materials from our suppliers with every purchase order we place.
